Marriott School International Student Orientation will be held from August 4th-14th, 2014 on BYU campus. This orientation is conducted by the BYU Global Management Center (GMC). The MBA Program and GMC strongly encourage international students to arrive in Provo by August 1, to allow time to get settled before orientations and classes begin. The GMC will offer individual help to students who arrive before orientation.

POLICY
All incoming international MBA students are required to attend International Student Orientation prior to entering the MBA program. As stated in your official admission letters, your admission to the MBA program is provisional (conditional) based on your attendance at and full participation in this event; if you are not in attendance at the entire orientation, you will not be allowed to enter the MBA program this year.

Details about International Student Orientation will be sent to you by the GMC in July 2014, but for now you need to plan to be ready to start orientation at the beginning of August on BYU campus. If you are not able be here at that time you should not make arrangements to come to the U.S. this year. The MBA program will not be responsible for costs incurred for travel, housing, etc., for applicants that don’t arrive in time to start orientation and, consequently, are not allowed to enter the MBA program.

CONTRACT
By signing the contract below, you are stating that you have read and understand the requirement to attend International Student Orientation as outlined above, and agree that if you do not attend the orientation in entirety that you will not enter the MBA program. If you have questions or concerns about this commitment, please contact the MBA office immediately.
